

Tiana Folkenfolk

Digital Creative Designer | UX/UI Designer | Visual Designer | Customer Experience

Nice to meet you, I'm Tiana, a UX/UI designer with a rich background in customer experience, visual communication, and commercial design for international brands. Throughout my career, I've developed a deep understanding of user behavior, visual hierarchy, user decision-making, and creating intuitive experiences. After making a digital shift into UX/UI, I combine my commercial and design experience with the tools and methodologies of digital product design.

Digital Creative Designer & Customer Success, 2024–Present

- Identifying friction points on the platform for subscribers and sharing insights with the development team to improve the user experience.
- Designing digital content for businesses: creating concepts, landing pages, and brand sites using AI models.
- Identifying subscribers' business needs to help establish the right digital presence.

Media Relations Manager, Comms & PR, H&M, 2020–2022

- Leading user research, focus groups, and market trend analysis to deepen understanding of target audiences and their behaviour patterns.
- Shaping communication messages for different brand categories and diverse target audiences, while ensuring consistency in brand identity, tone, and unified messaging.

IWR – H&M (Indoor Window Responsibility), 2019–2020

- Planning and building nationwide commercial visibility for stores and window displays across all departments, aligned with business goals while maintaining brand identity and adapting to local context, such as seasonality, holidays, and target audience preferences.
- Collaborating cross-functionally to coordinate and implement commercial concepts in stores, tracking guideline execution and making adjustments as needed.

VM – H&M (Visual Merchandiser), 2016–2019

- Analyzing customer behavior and movement patterns in-store, translating insights into layout and display optimization.
- Building commercial visibility for store departments and window displays to create a consistent, customer focused shopping experience.

C&D (Communication & Design), IKEA, 2012–2015

- Shaped the in-store customer experience through visual hierarchy, navigation, and product presentation to guide clear, confident decision-making.
- Translating business goals and sales KPIs into practical visual solutions while maintaining a consistent customer experience.
